Better solar container lithium battery pack

I see "you better do something" as a short spoken form of "you had better do something". "Had" better is an idiom meaning "you should do" and "it would be better if you did".

"The better" is a superlative that only applies when comparing two people or things. "The best" is not wrong when comparing just two, but "the better" makes clear that the ...

You can certainly say that, effect3. "Better" can be used as a verb to replace "improve" with the same meaning. But I don't think you have improved the clarity of the ...

While "Are you feeling better" refers to someone, let's say, who catches a cold and the next day you raise the question "Are you feeling better now". You can use "are you feeling ...

Whether you use "the less the better," "the fewer the better" or "the smaller the better" depends on what adjective fits for the noun that you are talking about.

I've come across some sentences like "Studying the different examples of how the law works helps to better understand the application of justice." or "Studying and discussing ...

"Better" in "You better do it now" is replacing "had better" in "You had better do it now." It thus is an adjective turned into a verb, just as much as "shovel" (originally used only ...

You will probably find "better than I" recommended by most grammar books, but "better than me" on the lips of most colloquial speakers.
